

The `maxLineLength` argument is used to define the maximum line length allowed in the Flowable. If your text happens to exceed the length that you define, the line will be automatically split.